

On 28 November, [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] was interviewed after arrangements of [REDACTED] Chief of the Operational Support Desk and [REDACTED] of Security Research Staff. [REDACTED] advised that he was attempting, at the direction of the DCI to find out if there were any offices in the Agency that might have any assets in the pacifist movements that could possibly be developed and utilized on an operational mission into [REDACTED].

[REDACTED] was taken into their confidence and advised that we had low key informants in some of the pacifist groups, particularly Women's Strike for Peace. [REDACTED] expressed a deep interest in our statement and requested that we obtain permission to further discuss the possibilities of our assets with him. He also advised that the Director of Security would be briefed on his interest with the understanding that the Director of Security would not want any operational interest or requirements interjected that would abolish his source of information currently existing regarding possible threats to the security of this Agency, its personnel or installations. [REDACTED] was reminded of the extreme sensitivity of this matter and the Office of Security activities with the pacifist groups, and he was requested not to discuss this with anyone or make it a matter of record until the Director of Security had taken the matter into consideration.

[REDACTED]

cc: Reading File
Merrimack File